Marine Insurance

Just about every entity that imports or exports raw materials, semi-finished goods, finished goods, long lead material or sells a portion of finished products abroad needs cargo insurance. The list includes, but is not limited to, manufacturers, retailers, and import and export traders. The goal when purchasing insurance coverage is to cover the financial exposure during cargo transit, keeping in mind that many carriers only maintain the minimal requirements as governed.

Cargo insurance protects every shipment through each leg of the voyage, from the point of departure or the seller's warehouse to arrival at the consignee's warehouse. Whether the transit is by land, sea, or air, coverage is continuous and includes, if needed, related warehousing - anywhere in the world.

There are many risks associated with doing business in the global marketplace, that is why appropriate insurance is necessary to manage the risk of global transportation. 360 FS works closely with underwriters to provide flexible, customizable global import cargo insurance and transportation coverage. Whether you choose the broadest "all-risk" coverage, or a tailored insurance policy built to suit individual shipments, we can handle your cargo insurance needs.

All cargo must be proper seaworthy packing.

Chubb's Converge is door to door, all survey inspection will be done at receiver's warehouse instead @ port warehouse with time restriction.

Cargo must not be unpacked without the present of the insurance surveyor.
